

ATLANTIC TRAVEL & TOURS

A JOURNEY DESIGNED WITH ELEGANCE AND AWARENESS

EXCLUSIVE SERVICES DESIGNED TO SUPPORT EVERY STAGE OF THE EXPERIENCE WITH CONTINUITY, ATTENTION, AND CARE FOR DETAIL

FROM THE CEO - FOUNDER

Dear travelers,

Every journey begins long before departure: it takes shape through preparation, becomes defined through organization, and comes to life through the care with which every detail is managed.

Within this process, travel services play an essential role, supporting travelers through the different stages that precede and accompany the experience, with the aim of making it smoother, more harmonious, and free from unnecessary complexity.

Our tour operator has developed a range of dedicated services integrated into a coordinated approach to travel planning, designed to provide structure, continuity, and clarity at every stage, from the initial organization to departure itself.

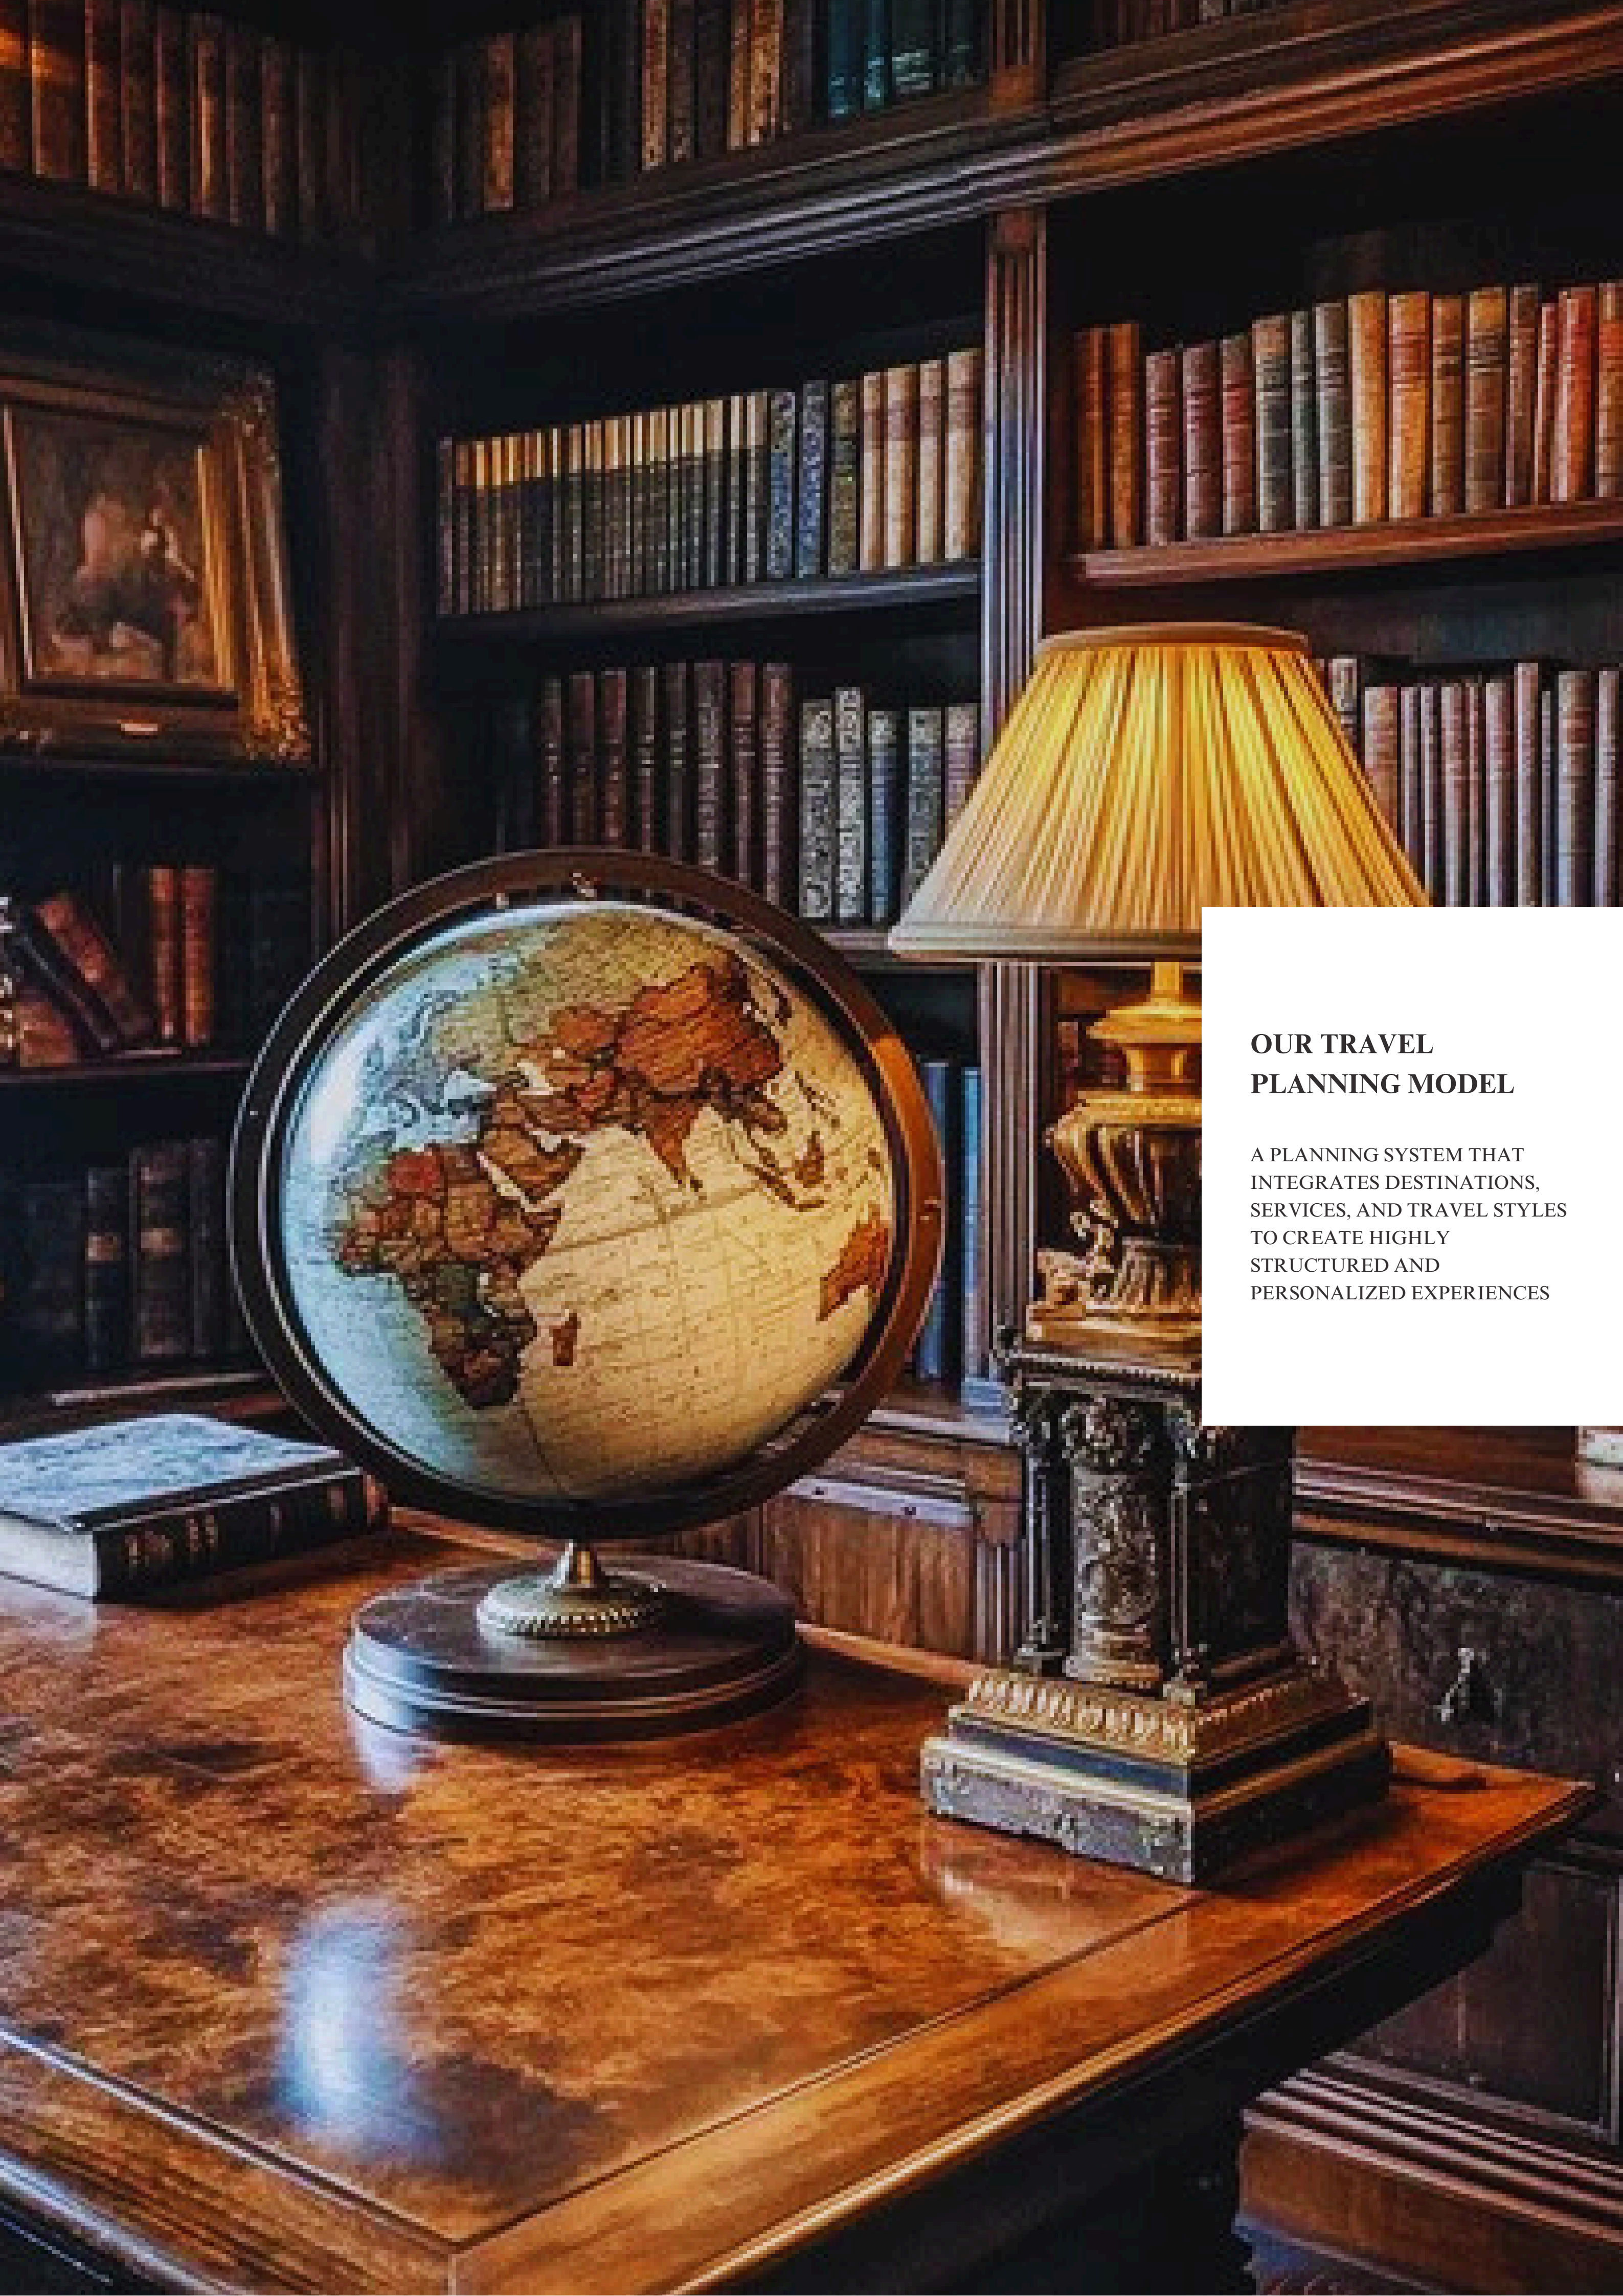

These are not isolated solutions, but part of a system created to work in balance, where each element contributes to shaping a more conscious and better organized travel experience.

The objective is to accompany travelers with discretion and precision, transforming travel management into a process that feels simpler, more elegant, and naturally well-structured.

OUR TRAVEL PLANNING MODEL

A PLANNING SYSTEM THAT INTEGRATES DESTINATIONS,
SERVICES, AND TRAVEL STYLES
TO CREATE HIGHLY STRUCTURED AND
PERSONALIZED EXPERIENCES

AREAS OF SPECIALISATION AND DESTINATIONS

An international travel planning model based on geographical areas and travel experience categories

REFERENCE SCOPE

Our approach to travel design is based on a targeted specialisation that combines the type of experience with destination selection. The activities of Atlantic Travel & Tours focus on leisure travel, corporate and professional travel, cultural and educational travel, as well as pet-friendly travel solutions, developed through a network of primary and secondary destinations.

This model ensures a high level of organisational consistency while maintaining strong flexibility in itinerary design.

PRIMARY SPECIALISATION DESTINATIONS

The core activities are focused on key areas of international tourism, which represent the central foundation of the offer:

- United States
- Canada
- United Kingdom
- Republic of Ireland

These destinations form the reference point for most leisure, corporate, cultural, and pet-friendly travel programmes.

SECONDARY DESTINATIONS AND EXTENDED GEOGRAPHICAL AREAS

Supporting the main destinations, our planning system extends to several secondary geographical areas, used to develop itineraries consistent with the travel types described above:

- Central America (Caribbean)
- North Atlantic (Greenland, Bermuda)
- Northern Europe (Faroe Islands, Iceland, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Netherlands)
- Southern Europe (Spain, Portugal, Italy, Malta, Greece)
- North Africa (Egypt)
- Middle East (United Arab Emirates, Israel and Palestine)
- Indian Ocean (Seychelles, Mauritius, Zanzibar, Maldives)
- Far East (Japan)
- Oceania (Australia, French Polynesia)

SPECIALIST TRAVEL PROGRAMMES

The planning model also extends to dedicated and highly specialised services:

- English language programmes abroad: United States, Canada, United Kingdom, Republic of Ireland, Malta, Australia
- Medical tourism: Canada, Costa Rica, United Kingdom, Spain, United Arab Emirates, Turkey, Japan

TARGET MARKETS

All services are designed and developed for clients based in the United States, Canada, United Kingdom, Republic of Ireland, Italy, and Australia, with the aim of ensuring a coherent, international, and highly structured approach to travel planning.

TAILOR-MADE TRAVEL FOR EVERY NEED

A tailor-made approach to international travel design

REFERENCE SCOPE

Contemporary travel is no longer a standardised experience, but a journey that reflects increasingly specific personal needs, motivations, and circumstances. Each traveller brings different expectations, requiring a level of planning capable of adapting not only to the destination, but above all to the individual.

In this context, tailor-made planning represents an essential approach to ensuring coherence between the type of experience requested and the traveller's actual needs, whether for leisure, professional, or educational purposes.

CHALLENGES IT HELPS PREVENT

A journey not designed according to the traveller's specific needs may create misalignment between expectations and the actual experience. This can result in organisational difficulties, a lack of proper personalisation, or solutions that are not fully consistent with the client's profile.

In particular, needs related to specific life stages, personal conditions, professional objectives, or educational pathways require a level of attention that goes beyond simple destination selection.

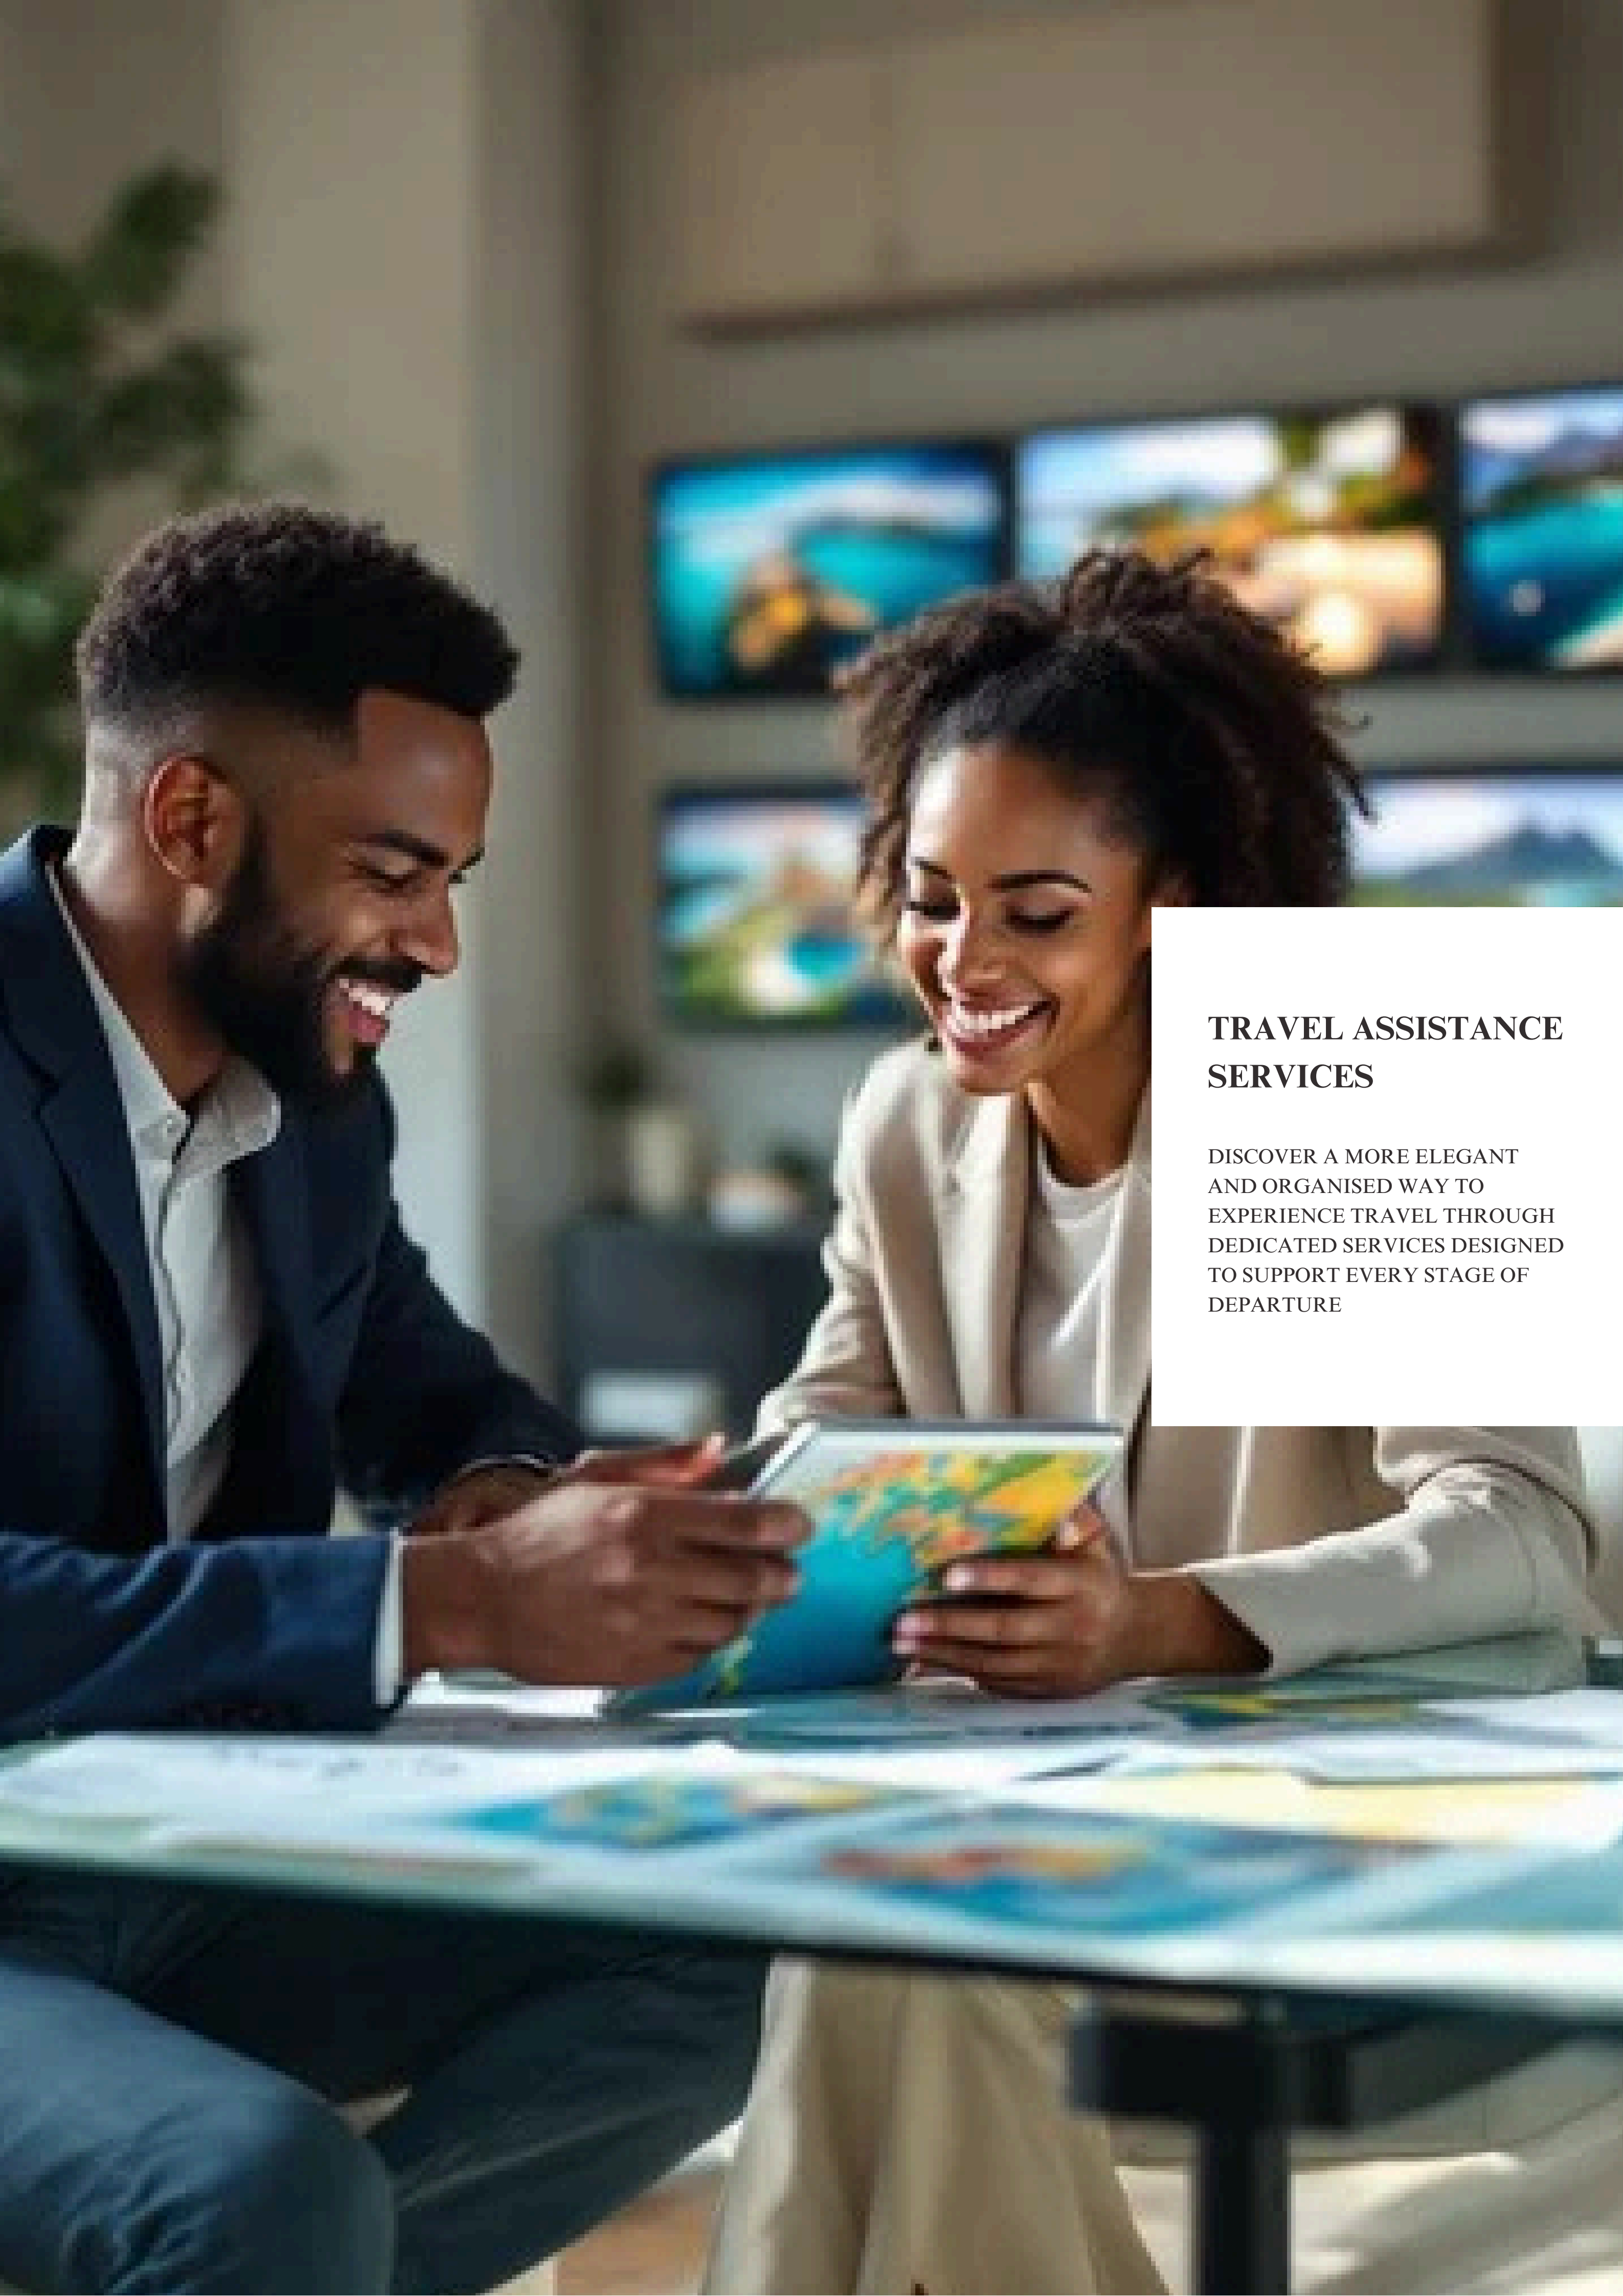

ADDED VALUE IN THE TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

Our approach is entirely focused on tailor-made travel design, built starting from the traveller's profile and real needs.

Experiences are developed for different categories, including honeymoon and anniversary travel with vow renewal options, travel for senior travellers over 65, individuals with mobility or accessibility needs, medical and wellness travel, pet-friendly travel, corporate and professional travel, cultural itineraries for secondary schools, universities and cultural institutions, as well as English language training programmes abroad for all ages and levels.

These services are reserved for clients based in the United States, Canada, United Kingdom, Republic of Ireland, Italy, and Australia, with the aim of ensuring a coherent and international approach to travel design.

The result is a system that does not start from the destination, but from the person, ensuring experiences that are truly aligned with individual needs and specific traveller contexts.

TOURIST VISAS

The proper management of entry formalities as an essential foundation of international travel

REFERENCE SCOPE

The management of tourist visas represents one of the fundamental elements in the planning of international travel, particularly for destinations that require prior verification of entry conditions. This is a phase that precedes departure and directly determines the possibility of accessing the destination country.

In this context, the correct interpretation of entry requirements plays a central role, as every international journey is governed by specific regulations that may vary depending on the destination, length of stay, and traveller nationality.

CHALLENGES IT HELPS PREVENT

The preparation phase for tourist visas, if handled without proper guidance, can lead to uncertainty regarding the correct interpretation of entry requirements or the management of necessary timelines.

In some cases, inaccurate planning may result in difficulties in gathering required information or presenting it correctly, causing delays in the overall travel organisation.

The absence of a clear reference point can also increase the margin of error in the initial planning stage, directly affecting the traveller's peace of mind during departure preparation.

ADDED VALUE IN THE TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

Our service is designed to provide structured support during this preliminary phase, assisting travellers in understanding the necessary information and correctly organising the documentation process.

Dedicated support for tourist visa management transforms a potentially complex stage into a clear, orderly, and controlled process. The traveller is guided through the correct interpretation of requirements and the structuring of preliminary steps, reducing uncertainty and operational fragmentation.

This approach allows for travel preparation to be undertaken with greater confidence and continuity, ensuring that the documentation process does not become a source of stress, but rather an integrated and seamless part of the overall travel experience. The result is a more conscious departure, built on solid foundations and managed with a level of clarity that allows the traveller to focus entirely on the experience awaiting at the destination.

CURRENCY EXCHANGE

The advance management of currency as part of the conscious preparation of international travel

REFERENCE SCOPE

Currency management is one of the practical aspects that accompanies the preparation phase of international travel. Although many transactions today can be carried out through digital payment systems, having access to a portion of local currency continues to represent an element of security and flexibility, particularly during the initial stages of a stay or in contexts where cash usage is still widespread.

Within this framework, planning currency exchange before departure becomes an integral part of overall travel organisation, contributing to a more structured management of the financial aspects of the trip.

CHALLENGES IT HELPS PREVENT

Travelling without adequate currency planning may lead to inconvenient situations upon arrival, such as the need to carry out exchange operations at unfavourable times or in locations that are not ideal from a logistical or economic perspective.

In some cases, the absence of prior preparation can result in a fragmented management of initial expenses, affecting the smoothness of the first moments of the stay and the ability to move with greater autonomy.

ADDED VALUE IN THE TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

Advance currency planning allows travellers to approach departure with greater order and awareness, ensuring immediate access to financial resources upon arrival.

Our approach supports this preparatory phase with the aim of simplifying the management of practical aspects, reducing unnecessary steps, and contributing to a smoother travel experience from the very beginning. This enables travellers to focus entirely on the start of their journey, without interruptions related to operational currency management.

LUGGAGE SHIPPING BEFORE DEPARTURE

The advance management of luggage as an element of fluidity in travel preparation

REFERENCE SCOPE

Luggage management is a central component in the organisation of any journey, particularly on long-haul routes, multi-connection itineraries, or travel plans that require frequent transfers. In this context, luggage is not only a logistical element but an integral part of the overall travel experience.

The option of sending luggage in advance of departure therefore fits into the preparation phase, contributing to a more structured management of operational aspects related to transport.

CHALLENGES IT HELPS PREVENT

Travelling with traditional luggage handling can involve certain operational complexities, especially in the case of long flights, layovers, or complex airport procedures. Carrying luggage directly with the traveller may impact timing, comfort, and the fluidity of transit phases.

In addition, airport luggage management can introduce waiting times and coordination steps that, in certain contexts, may reduce the perceived continuity of the travel experience.

ADDED VALUE IN THE TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

Advance luggage shipping significantly lightens the departure phase, reducing operational handling during airport procedures and allowing travellers to move with greater freedom and simplicity.

Our support is integrated into this optimisation approach, helping transform departure into a smoother and more linear experience. The result is a journey that begins with greater ease, where attention can be focused entirely on the travel experience rather than on luggage logistics.

TRAVEL INSURANCE

Travel protection as a structural element of international planning

REFERENCE SCOPE

Travel insurance is a fundamental component in the planning of international travel, particularly for non-European destinations or stays characterised by greater organisational complexity. It is not merely an ancillary formality, but a tool that contributes to defining the overall level of protection of the journey.

In this context, the choice of insurance coverage is integrated into the preparatory phase, alongside other elements that form the structure of the trip, with the aim of ensuring greater awareness in managing potential variables during the stay.

CHALLENGES IT HELPS PREVENT

International travel inevitably involves a series of unpredictable variables, which may concern health, logistics, or organisational aspects. The absence of adequate coverage may expose travellers to difficulties in managing unforeseen events, with both operational and financial consequences.

Among the most relevant elements are potential trip cancellations, medical expenses abroad, issues related to lost luggage, and situations linked to extraordinary health conditions such as those that emerged in recent years in connection with COVID-19.

ADDED VALUE IN THE TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

Adequate insurance coverage allows travellers to face their journey with a higher level of peace of mind, reducing the impact of potential issues and ensuring a more structured management of unforeseen circumstances.

Our approach focuses on identifying solutions aligned with the type of travel and the traveller's specific needs, transforming insurance from a formal requirement into a structural component of travel planning. The result is a safer and more conscious travel experience, where the management of unexpected events does not interrupt the continuity of the journey.

INTERNATIONAL SIM CARDS AND ESIMS

Global Connectivity as an Integral Part of the Travel Experience

REFERENCE SCOPE

Reliable internet connectivity has become an essential component of international travel planning. Continuous access to the internet allows travellers to use navigation tools, transportation services, translation applications, booking platforms, and personal or professional communication channels throughout their journey.

International SIM cards and eSIM solutions make it possible to arrange connectivity before departure, eliminating the need to search for local mobile operators upon arrival and ensuring seamless access to communication services from the very beginning of the trip.

CHALLENGES IT HELPS PREVENT

During an overseas stay, efficient mobile connectivity can greatly facilitate a wide range of daily activities, from consulting maps and itineraries to managing reservations and accessing emergency services and travel assistance.

International connectivity solutions also help reduce the risk of high roaming charges and provide more predictable costs through plans tailored to the destination and length of stay.

Particular attention should be given to eSIM technology, which allows travellers to activate mobile services digitally, without the need to physically replace the SIM card already installed in their device.

ADDED VALUE IN THE TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

Having an active internet connection immediately upon arrival helps make travel smoother, more efficient, and more independent. The ability to communicate, navigate unfamiliar environments, and access essential information at any time allows travellers to move with greater confidence and peace of mind.

Our assistance service helps travellers identify the most suitable connectivity solutions based on destination, trip duration, and expected usage requirements, ensuring a more effective approach to international communications.

Careful planning of this aspect of the journey contributes significantly to the overall travel experience, providing continuity of communication and reliable access to essential digital services wherever the trip may lead.

PRIORITY CHECK-IN

The optimisation of airport procedures as part of the travel experience

REFERENCE SCOPE

Check-in procedures represent an essential phase of the airport experience, particularly in international travel where timing, passenger flows, and boarding operations may vary depending on the airline, airport, and departure period. In this context, priority check-in is positioned as an advanced management element of the initial stages of the journey, contributing to a more orderly and linear transition from preliminary operations to the boarding area.

CHALLENGES IT HELPS PREVENT

The traditional check-in phase can involve extended waiting times, especially during peak travel periods or in major international hubs. These dynamics may affect the perceived fluidity of the travel experience, generating unpredictable delays.

In some cases, inefficient management of this stage can make the transition to subsequent airport procedures less smooth, increasing organisational pressure in the moments immediately preceding departure.

ADDED VALUE IN THE TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

Priority check-in helps streamline and accelerate the initial phase of the airport process, reducing waiting times and facilitating access to subsequent boarding procedures, where available depending on airport and airline conditions.

Our approach integrates this service within a broader logic of travel experience optimisation, contributing to a more orderly and less fragmented departure. The result is a more efficient management of airport timing, with a direct impact on the overall perception of comfort and continuity throughout the journey.

FAST TRACK SERVICE

Facilitated access to security controls as part of the airport experience

REFERENCE SCOPE

The passage through airport security checks represents one of the most structured phases of travel, particularly in major airports or during peak travel periods. Operational procedures may vary significantly depending on the airport and airline, affecting both timing and overall passenger flow management.

In this context, the fast track service is integrated as a tool for optimising the airport journey, helping to create a more streamlined access route to the boarding area.

CHALLENGES IT HELPS PREVENT

Security screening can involve variable waiting times, often influenced by passenger volume and the internal organisation of the airport. At certain times of the day or year, these queues may become particularly significant.

Such dynamics can impact the fluidity of the airport experience, especially when the journey includes tight connections or shorter transit windows.

ADDED VALUE IN THE TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

The fast track service helps reduce waiting times at security checkpoints, enabling a quicker and more orderly passage towards the boarding area. The actual availability of the service depends on the airports and airlines involved in the journey, according to specific operational conditions.

Our approach integrates this solution within a broader management of the airport experience, contributing to a smoother and less fragmented departure. The result is a more efficient boarding process, with reduced waiting times during key transit stages within the airport journey.

COMFORT IN AIRPORT LOUNGES

Access to exclusive airport lounges as an evolution of the travel experience

REFERENCE SCOPE

Airport lounges have long represented a distinctive element of the air travel experience, originally reserved for first and business class passengers. Over time, however, access to these spaces has gradually expanded, becoming available to economy class passengers as well, depending on airport facilities and airline policies.

In this context, lounges are configured as dedicated environments designed to manage airport waiting time in a more comfortable and structured way.

CHALLENGES IT HELPS PREVENT

Waiting at airports can be one of the less comfortable phases of travel, particularly during long layovers, delays, or tight connections. Public terminal areas do not always provide optimal conditions for rest, work, or effective time management.

These situations can affect the perceived quality of the travel experience, making the transition between flights less smooth.

ADDED VALUE IN THE TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

Access to airport lounges allows travellers to experience waiting time in a private and comfortable environment, with access to dedicated services such as quality dining, relaxation areas, showers, and spaces equipped for work or personal activities.

The actual availability of this service depends on the airports and airlines involved in the journey, according to specific operational conditions.

Our approach integrates this solution within a broader airport experience strategy, helping transform waiting time into a more productive and pleasant part of the journey. The result is a more balanced overall experience, where even transit moments gain functional value and comfort.

ONE FREE PERSON FOR EVERY 15 PAYING TRAVELERS

A dedicated group formula designed to make travel more accessible and structured

REFERENCE SCOPE

Group travel dynamics represent an increasingly widespread organisational model, both in leisure and corporate contexts, due to their ability to optimise costs, logistics, and the overall coordination of the experience. In this framework, group composition becomes a central element in travel planning.

The “one free place for every 15 paying participants” formula fits into this logic as a tool to enhance the collective organisation of travel.

CHALLENGES IT HELPS PREVENT

Managing group travel can involve greater complexity in financial and organisational planning, particularly as the number of participants increases. Coordinating individual contributions and distributing costs may affect the fluidity of the travel planning phase.

Without optimisation mechanisms, the economic structure of the group can become less efficient, making overall planning more complex.

ADDED VALUE IN THE TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

The “one free place for every 15 paying participants” formula makes group travel more advantageous, encouraging shared itineraries and promoting collective participation.

Our approach integrates this solution within group travel management, contributing to a more balanced and accessible overall structure. The result is a more efficient organisation that enhances the collective dimension of travel and facilitates its planning.

EXCLUSIVE 20% DISCOUNT

A continuous benefit designed to make travel more accessible throughout the year

REFERENCE SCOPE

The economic dynamics linked to travel planning represent a relevant factor in the decision-making and organisation phase of the experience. In this context, access to favourable pricing conditions contributes to making travel more accessible and easier to plan over time.

The exclusive 20% discount is positioned as a structural benefit applicable throughout the year, regardless of seasonality or traveller category.

CHALLENGES IT HELPS PREVENT

Travel planning can be influenced by economic variables linked to seasonality, service availability, and peak demand periods. Without favourable conditions, the overall cost may affect flexibility in choosing departure dates or types of experiences.

This can make travel planning more complex, particularly when balancing experience quality with budget management.

ADDED VALUE IN THE TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

The exclusive 20% discount applied year-round, with no minimum spend and for all traveller categories, helps make the travel experience more accessible and flexible in its planning phase.

Our approach integrates this benefit within the overall offering, supporting greater freedom in selecting destinations and departure periods. The result is a more economically sustainable travel experience, without compromising the quality of organisation and service.

PROFESSIONAL PHOTOGRAPHER

The enhancement of travel moments through professional photo and video content

REFERENCE SCOPE

Some journeys carry a value that goes beyond simple travel, becoming meaningful moments linked to personal events, celebrations, or special occasions. Honeymoons, anniversaries, vow renewals, or shared experiences with family and friends represent situations in which the emotional dimension of travel plays a central role. In this context, professional documentation of the experience becomes an integral part of its enhancement.

CHALLENGES IT HELPS PREVENT

During the most important travel moments, managing photography and video content independently does not always ensure a complete and structured representation of the experience. The absence of professional documentation can limit the ability to preserve key moments in an organised and coherent way.

In addition, the lack of dedicated support may reduce the opportunity to fully experience the journey, as travellers often need to balance living the moment with documenting it.

ADDED VALUE IN THE TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

A professional photographer service allows the most significant moments of the journey to be transformed into carefully curated photo and video content, capable of authentically and coherently narrating the experience.

Our approach integrates this option into emotionally or symbolically significant travel experiences, providing professionals who can capture the essence of the journey without interfering with its natural flow. The result is a lasting visual narrative that preserves the true value of the moments experienced during the trip.

OUR COMMITMENT TO THE ENVIRONMENT AND RESEARCH

Travel as a tool for awareness and contribution to global causes

REFERENCE SCOPE

Contemporary travel is not only an individual experience linked to the discovery of new destinations, but it can also take on a broader dimension of awareness and responsibility. In this context, growing attention is being given to initiatives that connect the tourism sector with projects of social and environmental impact.

Through our journeys and tours, travellers are offered the optional opportunity to support non-profit organisations engaged in globally relevant fields.

CHALLENGES IT HELPS PREVENT

Major contemporary challenges related to environmental protection and scientific research require continuous and structured support, which is often fragmented or not easily accessible within everyday activities.

In many cases, the lack of a direct link between consumption experiences and support for global causes limits the possibility of generating a widespread and consistent impact over time.

ADDED VALUE IN THE TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

Our approach integrates the travel dimension with the possibility of supporting non-profit initiatives dedicated to flora and fauna conservation, the fight against global warming, and cancer research support.

This allows travel to take on a value that goes beyond personal experience, transforming it into a broader contribution to global issues. The result is a travel experience that combines discovery, organisation, and awareness, fitting into a more responsible and participatory vision of contemporary tourism.
